Materials and other information provided on the Rollins, Smalkin, Richards & Mackie, L.L.C. ("RSR&M") website are for general informational purposes only and do not constitute solicitation or legal advice. Therefore, you should not rely upon any information contained in this website. While we attempt to update and maintain information as accurately as possible, the law changes frequently. Therefore, the website may be incomplete, may contain errors and/or may not reflect the most current legal developments. Should you desire legal advice, please contact one of our attorneys directly in order to discuss your specific situation.

Nothing contained in this website should be interpreted as creating an attorney-client relationship. While we welcome the opportunity to communicate with you, doing so, whether through telephone, email or other means, does not make the communication and our response confidential and does not establish an attorney-client relationship between you and either RSR&M or any of the firm's attorneys. An attorney-client relationship cannot be formed over the telephone, by email or other electronic medium. An attorney-client relationship can only be created by personal contact with an individual RSR&M attorney and requires our prior written consent to act as your legal counsel together with your execution of a written engagement agreement with RSR&M. As such, please do not send any information through this website or email that is confidential or private until you speak with one of our attorneys and have received authorization to do so; doing so may risk that any information you send to us may not be treated as being privileged.

Although this website may be viewed from anywhere, RSR&M attorneys practice primarily in the States of Maryland, the District of Columbia, and Pennsylvania in the United States of America. Other jurisdictions may have laws and regulations which differ substantially from those in which we practice. RSR&M's attorneys are only authorized to practice law in those jurisdictions to which they have gained admission, subject to limited exceptions under the rules of particular jurisdictions. You should visit each individual attorney's profile in order to learn in what jurisdiction that person is authorized to practice law. Our office is located in Maryland and this website complies with the rules and laws regulating attorney advertising as governed by the State Bar of Maryland.

This website may contain information about favorable results our attorneys have obtained. No firm, including RSR&M, can guarantee a client a favorable result, and no information contained herein is meant to indicate that the same or similar results can or will be obtained in other cases or situations. Prior results do not predict, warrant or guarantee a similar outcome. References to past or present clients or the circumstances of their specific matters do not constitute testimonials or endorsements by such clients, nor are they a guaranty, warranty or prediction of the outcome of your legal matter.

The website may include links to external websites maintained by other organizations or agencies and third parties may link to this website. Websites accessible through links are owned and operated by third parties who have no affiliation with RSR&M. RSR&M does not recommend, endorse, sponsor or approve of the operators of or the content in any linked websites, nor does it have any control over the substance or accuracy of websites accessed through the links.
